

Trees

Poetry in black and white

Photography Gilles Molinier

Text Sophie Avril

January sketches its first frosts,
On the cold floor of the woodland,
Savor the silence, quintessence of white mornings,
Offer our eyes this delicate multitude,
Pierced through winter a fine lace such as this,
And discover again these evanescent moments.

